

GABRIELLE SOFIA

MUSICIAN/ WRITER/ PRODUCER/VOCALIST

Biography

"A full blast of fresh air to the indie-pop scene in Nova Scotia!"

- Billy Comer, Director of Hopscotch Festival/
Halifax Culture & Events

Gabrielle has been a student of music from the age of eight years old, when she first started playing piano. Over the next decade, her passion for music led to guitar lessons, learning to play the trumpet, tuba, and baritone in her school bands, and teaching herself how to play bass guitar and the drums.

After deciding to turn her passion into a career in music, she applied for the Music Production and Engineering program at NSCC. Currently finishing her last year; she is one of only two women in the program. One of her instructors, Stephanie Pronk, describes her musical energy as "a swirling rainbow concoction of positivity, hyperbole and truth."

She says that her musical style is heavily influenced by everything that surrounds her, ranging from the people she meets, the places she's been and the music that she has been exposed to. Some of her heavy musical influences at the moment are Miguel, Dominic Fike, H.E.R., Deb Never, Billie Eilish and Remi Wolf.

In the next few years she hopes to make an impact on the music industry and is very excited to make connections with, and collaborate with other women in music.
